Bay native Henry Jetton Tudury was Mississippi's most-decorated WWI soldier

Henry Tudury receiving the Distinguished Service Cross from General John J. Pershing.

This past Sunday, Nov. 11, marked not only Veterans Day, but the 100th anniversary of the official end of World War I, and Bay St. Louis marked the occasion by remembering native son Henry Jetton Tudury, Mississippi's "Most Decorated Doughboy."

Also known as "Mississippi's Sgt. York," Tudury was the state's most-decorated war hero during World War I, earning the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre for "extraordinary heroism in action" in France.

Tudury was a private in the U.S. Army during WWI, a member of Company C, 12th Machine Gun Battalion.

According to the Sea Coast Echo reports at the time, "Wounded and gassed, (Tudury) refused to leave his post until overcome by exhaustion when he was carried from the field. He was a member of the twelfth machine gun battalion of the fourth division. General Pershing personally pinned the service cross on the breast of the young Mississippian."

"Engaged as a runner near Courshamps, France. July 18-20, 1918, Private Tudury made repeated trips through intense shelling and machine-gun fire," according to U.S. War Department records of his medal. "On July 18 he was gassed, but bravely continued with his heroic work until he fell exhausted on the 20th."

"For this extraordinary heroism in action Private Tudury has been awarded the distinguished service cross by Gen. Pershing. He is a member of Company C, Twelfth Machine Gun Battalion, and his father, Peter Tudury, resides at Bay St. Louis, Miss."

Tudury wrote about some of his war experiences in a private journal, excerpts of which have been published and remain on file with the Hancock County Historical Society.

"I took in the review with General Pershing on the review stand and the rest of the decorated men," Tudury wrote about his French exploits. "I was some proud."

In another excerpt, Tudury wrote about what he experienced during a

"It is foolish and wrong to mourn the men who died. Rather we should thank God that such men lived." – George S. Patton Dunbar Village and Kare-In-Home Home Health and Hospice on Monday hosted a Veterans Day ceremony honoring Dunbar's elders and staff members who served in the U.S. military.

Bay-Waveland Middle School teacher David Adams and a group of his students kicked off Monday's ceremony with a short film created by his son, Cameron Adams, with help from staff and students in the Bay-Waveland School District.

"Creating this film was very special for us," David Adams said. "The fact that I work for the school district and get to do something so creative with my son is just incredibly rewarding."

The film depicted interviews with several veterans -- including many of the elders at Dunbar Village -- describing their war-time experiences, and ending with a multitude of BWSD students and staff thanking them for their sacrifices.

On Sunday, a Remembrance Day Ceremony at the Veterans Memorial on the beach in Waveland commemorated the end of WWI 100 years ago. The Bay High JROTC presented the colors with Major Christopher Andersen as leader. Mayor Mike Smith spoke and honored the veterans. Major Andersen sang the National Anthem and John King, who organized the event, closed the ceremony by sounding Taps.

The Municipal Gas Authority

When a Tiny backwater state agency published a public notice in the newspaper that it planned on issuing up to $895 million in state debt, it raised some eyebrows.

The Municipal Gas Authority of Mississippi (MGAM) only has a half-dozen or so employees, but that isn't stopping the 30-year-old agency from some whoping plans.

MGAM plans on issuing bonds to buy a 31-year supply of gas for 25 small municipal natural gas operations located throughout the state.

The question is why?

With fracking, there is a huge supply of natural gas. Gas pipelines are regulated and are independent from gas producers, of which there are dozens. Natural gas prices are low and predicted to be low for decades to come. Why would the MGAM want to tie down cities and the state in such a complex 31-year deal that few people can even understand?

MGAM Executive Director Geoff Wilson claims the deal will save the municipalities 15 percent off the market rate, but I am skeptical of these claims. Audited reports of other gas authorities show discounts in the one and two percent range, if that.

The annual MGAM audit does not have a single word or statistic showing any savings to its municipal members. A 2003 PEER review found savings of two cents from the typical $4 MMBTU price of gas. That doesn't even cover the salaries at MGAM.

Here's the thing I can't get over. The 25 Mississippi municipal gas companies represented by MGAM purchased a total of $18.7 million in natural gas in 2017. If MGAM issues $895 million in bonds, the interest on the bonds alone will cost about $35 million in the first year. How does that make sense? Just the interest on the bonds alone is twice the total amount spent on gas for the whole year.

I emailed that question to Wilson, but I never could figure out his answer. To his credit, he has been responsive, it's just loaded with technical jargon. I recall that statement rumored to be said by Albert Einstein; "If you can't explain it to a 12-year-old, you probably don't understand it very well yourself."

To be sure, I am not 12. I worked in the corporate finance division of Merrill Lynch in the heart of Wall Street doing bond deals. I am struggling to understand this deal.

I do know that during the financial collapse of 2008, dozens of these deals went down the tubes leading to billions of dollars in losses.

Curious, I got on the internet and did a little research. I only found one analysis written in 2010 by First Principles Capital Management in New York. It was titled, "Dissecting Municipal Prepaid Gas Transactions." It was not an encouraging report.

Suffering a mystery illness is very painful

Whenever my fellow church member and I celebrate the same Mass, she confirms my assessment that she comes in first or second leaping to her toes and shouting "Alleluia!" A couple of rows back on my left side, her vibrant, happy face and overall lively demeanor have never transmitted to me anything but a very healthy human being. However, when I encountered her at the local hospital last week, she still had the lively, healthy look, but her narrative was heartbreaking.

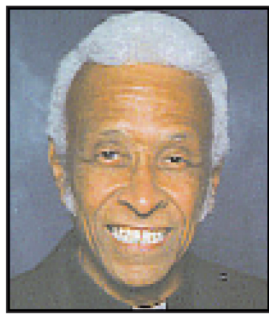

She put a hand over her breast and told me that her lungs, though not weak, are unstable at times. "On occasion I do go into crisis."

I blurted out, "That sounds like COPD!"

"No, it is not COPD, but some of the symptoms are the same."

As impetuous as Peter, I blurted out again, "What about the CPAP?"

She smiled. "No, I don't have either of them. I don't need a breathing mask, although I sometimes use an inhalant to open my breathing passages."

By this time, I had a sinking feeling about this lady whom I had judged to be a healthy human being. I simply could not believe that a person who looked that hale and hearty could be someone with a mystery illness that was not curable.

Being able to identify a health enemy like chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) gives us some room for hope, since we all like to know who or what our enemy is. But suppose your health enemy is not COPD, although it abuses you in a similar manner. Suppose again that your health enemy is not the inability to breathe spontaneously on your own. If you could not breathe spontaneously on your own, you would need a ventilator, a continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) ventilator that applies mild air pressure on a continuous basis to keep the airways open, as for sleep apnea. You don't need a CPAP if you can breathe spontaneously.

By now, I was waiting for the other shoe to fall. The dear lady with the cheerful face and demeanor had my complete attention. "A few years ago, my older sister died of the same illness I have. She was just 53. Both the women and the men in my family, including my grandmother and mother, have the same disorder, but some have lived to their late seventies or early eighties."

"It is a hereditary thing," I sighed heavily.

"Yes, father. It is a hereditary thing that the doctors are able to identify, but they know little or nothing about treating it, let alone healing it. So the mystery is not in the illness itself that is known as bronchiectasis. The mystery rests in the fact that doctors do not know how to cure it. The medication I take is rather standard, but I do have to take steroids when I go into crisis.

"Still, my faith in God does not waver. I always rely on God's wisdom, love and mercy to carry me through. Even though the doctors don't know how to heal, Jesus is there at all times and under the worst of conditions."

This, I thought, has to be the most painful aspect of the hereditary disorder, knowing that all the members of the family fall under the same termination. Some may not have the prospect of a long life and need strong faith in God just to survive. We want our loved ones around in good health as much and as long as possible.

White-tailed deer are most sought after

White-tailed deer are the most interesting and sought after animals in North America and Mississippi.

Depending on where you are located in the Magnolia State, deer usually breed between December 10 and February 4. Does normally breed only once per year; however, they may come into "heat" 3 to 4 times a year beginning in December and ending in February. The periods of "heat" last about 24 to 36 hours and occur about 28 days apart. A doe may have from 1 to 3 fawns per year, depending on her physical condition; about half the does in Mississippi produce 2 fawns per year. Does in Mississippi do not breed until they are 1.5 years old. Many people believe that old does do not breed but they do breed and produce young as long as they live.

Bucks do not come in "heat," but rather enter "rut." Rut consists of sparring, spreading of sign (rubs, scrapes, etc.), courtship, and breeding.

Sparring begins after bucks lose their velvet. Most bucks are fairly tolerant of each other during sparring. Sparring serves to establish which bucks in an area are dominant. Body and antler size are good indicators of a buck's social dominance. Bucks communicate with other deer during rut through various visual and scent signals. "Rubs" are trunks or stems of trees or bushes that bucks rub bark off with their antlers and head. Glands in the head leave scent on the rub. "Scrapes" consist of broken limbs 3 to 6 feet above ground, with a small depression pawed in the soil underneath on which the buck urinates. Bucks return often to scrapes to freshen their scent. A buck often locates the scent of a doe in "heat" near a scrape and will follow her with his nose to the ground while making a grunting sound. Bucks will also urinate on their inner leg glands to signal other deer. Rubs, scrapes, and urinating on the tarsal glands all serve to assert a buck's social dominance and to locate does.

During courtship, bucks become loners. Also, during courtship, tolerance among bucks disappears and fierce fights between bucks occur. Unless a doe is in "heat," she will run from a buck. Although all bucks court, only dominant Peak fawning times in Mississippi occur between June 22 and July 22. Fawns remain hidden near their birthplace for roughly 2 weeks, but by the time the fawn is 1 month old it will begin to follow its mother. Fawns will nurse until they are 3 to 5 months.

raising fawns. A fawn will lose its spotted coat at 4 months. Male fawns follow their mother for about 1 year; female fawns follow for about 2 years.

Deer in Mississippi feed mostly during the late afternoon and night. Generally, they spend the day bedded down in cover resting. An adult deer requires about 8 to 10 pounds of food per day, and about 2 to 3 quarts of water per day (depending on the type of food eaten).

before, she goes a step beyond by looking like the picture of health, joy and exuberance.

So she is not feeding you a platitude when her ready response to a greeting is,

"I'm blessed and highly favored! I cannot give enough thanks for all God has done and continues to do for me." Her wholesome attitude, her ready smile, her easy, constant words of thanks and praise altogether comprise a grand, ongoing act of faith in the will and grace of God that embrace her entire life. There is a distinct charm about keeping a positive attitude and constant chatter about God's goodness.

None of this comes naturally, but only through supernatural grace and effort.

Our heroine needs not blush when I pen all this, for humility is truth, just the facts, no exaggeration or boast. And God, not we, is glorified in the truth of all the wonders worked through our faith and our devotion to God alone who can and does all. "We just have to keep praising and thanking him!" she says.

A flow chart of the transactions shows nine different entities involved in 20 different transactions.

The report states: "A municipality issues a long term tax-exempt bond and uses the proceeds to purchase a long term supply of natural gas. The gas delivered under the contract is sold to local buyers at the prevailing market price. The proceeds from the sale of gas are paid to a commodity swap provider in return for fixed cash flows that are consistent with the debt service obligations of the municipal bond. The net result of these transactions is that the municipality has acquired a long term supply of gas at the prevailing market prices at the time of delivery. The issuance of the municipal bond serves no economic purpose other than to create an economically attractive loan for the financial institution serving as the gas supplier.

"In summary, a complex series of transactions involving long-term commodity supply contracts and derivatives were utilized by taxable financial institutions to obtain tax-deductible financing in the tax-exempt market at tax-exempt yields, something that taxable institutions are expressly forbidden from executing. With the purchase of the bonds issued by the financial institution, the recycling of the money from the debt issuance lacks any business purpose other than creating a significant tax benefit for the financial institution to the detriment of taxpayers."

MGAM Wilson says neither the municipalities nor MGAM (meaning ratepayers and taxpayers) will be on the hook. They plan to use the Mississippi Development Bank.

If you go to the Mississippi Development Bank's website it states: "The security for Mississippi Development Bank bonds is a lien on the revenues of the local governmental entity. A Mississippi Development Bank revenue bond may also contain the moral obligation of the State of Mississippi . . . Should a local government entity fail to make a debt service payment on the bonds, the State Tax Commission can withhold sales tax, homestead exemption and other funds to make those payments."

In the fine print of the audit of Georgia's gas authority, which just issued over a billion of these bonds, it states: "The Gas Authority is exposed to market price risk in the event of nonperformance by any of its counterparties." Not so good.

As I see it, the biggest beneficiaries of this deal are lawyers, bankers and middle men. Certainly the staff of MGAM will have 31 years to administer the program.

And if, pray tell, this deal goes bad, the lawsuits will be flying and you can bet the taxpayers will be picking up the legal tab and possibly a lot, lot more.

There is a huge supply of natural gas with dozens of suppliers and private companies that can assist any municipality to get the best price on gas. Lacking more substantial evidence of cost savings, it makes little sense for this small agency to get caught up in a complex billion dollar deal that nobody understands and could possibly put cities, taxpayers and ratepayers at risk.

"We were going through tortures of hell where the bloodiest battle took place. I was signal corporal in the Muse-Argonne battle having 19 runners in charge which was the backbone of the company.

"When the Argonne battle was over, two runners and myself were the only ones left."

"I was special runner for Capt. Hoopes who got mangled by a direct hit in front of me about 10 yards. Capt. Hoopes was a brave man. He expressed himself too much and showed too much personal bravery.

"We were doing heavy fighting when I was gassed two or three times, but stuck to my front until I ran into a gas shell. Don't know how I left the battlefield. Was taken to base hospital 46 and was so weak could not stand up."

As bad as the war was, Tudory also had to contend with unpleasant conditions:

"We had to fight the cooties and the Jerries too," he wrote.

After the war, Tudory returned home to Bay St. Louis, where he lived until his death on May 21, 1955, at the age of 62.

He is buried at St. Mary's Cemetery in Bay St. Louis.

Veterans

Afterwards, Adams again thanked the veterans for their service to the nation.

On behalf of the Bay-Waveland School District and Bay-Waveland Middle School," Principal Bradley Ladner said, "we want to salute our veterans and thank them for their service. It was our privilege to get to come here and celebrate Veterans Day here at Dunbar Village."

After the film, Lee Ann Newman, Patrick McGill and Jamie Woods with Kare-In-Home passed out certificates and ribbons with patriotic pins attached.

"What else can you say but 'Thank you,' to our veterans?" McGill said. "We would not be here if not for the men and women before us."

Elder veterans honored included: Herbert Ackermann, who served in the U.S. Navy; Calvin Byrne, U.S. Navy; Alfred "Sam" Courtiade, Air Force; Calvin Joseph Duteil, who served in the U.S. Army during WWII; Ronald Frank, Jr. who served in the U.S. Air Force; Dan Hayes, U.S. Air Force;; Admiral James McCardell, who served in the U.S. Navy; Harold Noonan, Air National Guard; Herbert Starr, U.S. Air Force; and James Williams, U.S. Army.

FCAHS clips St. Stanislaus 70-69

BY JOSEPH W. GEX,
II
STAFF WRITER

The high school basketball season has finally gotten underway. All teams in the area are now in action and heating up the hardwood.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (0-2) hosted the Forrest County AHS Aggies on Friday evening and hosted a return of members of the 2000 Division 8-4A championship team. That team included both the current SSC head coach Aaron Dunklin, SSC assistant coach JR Willis and current FCAHS head coach Grayson Timidaiski. While the reunion was enjoyable for players and fans alike, the Aggies nipped the atmosphere with a 70-69 win. While it was not a Rockwin, a Rock-a-chaw did get the win.

The Rocks got up by as much as 12 points 17-5 in the first quarter as Luke Ladner poured in eight points in the opening frame as SSC held a 18-9 advantage after one period.

Ladner continued his barrage of points in the first two minutes of the second period hitting a trey and another basket before having to sit for foul trouble.

Brandon Bordelon, Dallas Payne, Charlie Whaley and others held their ground and held off the pesky Aggies for a 35-34 lead at intermission.

At halftime, former players from the 2000 division championship team were honored at half court. The honorees included Lee Howard, David Kellum, John Ellis, Brandon Arcement, Grayson Timidaiski, Zeke Davis, Aaron Dunklin and JR Willis.

period 56-52.

The Rocks methodically chopped away at the lead. Ladner hit a three-pointer with 1:05 left to play to make the score 66-64. Chance LeBlanc nailed a deep shot with eight seconds left to make the score 68-67.

After FCAHS phenom Ashton Campbell nailed two of his 17 free throws in the game with five seconds left to make the score 70-67, Ladner went to the line after he was fouled on a three-point attempt.

Ladner swished the first two shots but the third one rimmed out leaving the final score 70-69.

FCAHS head coach and 2001 SSC graduate Grayson Timidaiski commented, "It is an honor and a privilege to come back and play in this gymnasium where so many memories were made. Our guys know where I played and they wanted to come in and give a good showing and play hard. Our parents and supporters want to win and there is no love loss between the two schools; however, when it was learned that I would be part of the recognition our supporters were most appreciative. I am thrilled for Aaron Dunklin and all that he is accomplishing here. We were all part of Coach Jay Ladner's process and it is humbling to be a part of bringing that process forward."

Timidaiski added, "As the game goes tonight, we came out and ran our sets and competed extremely hard. Ashton Campbell had a huge game for us. He is just a junior so he has more to learn and to contribute. We need to get back to the practice floor and clean our game up going forward and work on getting better each time we

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws basketball program honored members of the 2000 Division 8-4A champions when the Rocks hosted the Forrest County AHS Aggies on Friday, November 9th. enter the gym. We are not matched up with SSC again until possibly the playoffs if we both advance. If that is the case and we meet each other, then at least we know one of us will advance."

The Aggies were led by Campbell who led all scorers with 37 points and was 17-of-19 from the free throw line.

SSC head coach Aaron Dunklin stated, "This was a tale of two quarters. We played well in the first and fourth quarter and we did not play well in the second and third. We did not do a good job of adjusting to how the game was called on the floor. In each game, there has to be adjustments in your style of play with the whistle and we did not do that. We continue to work on basketball acumen. We hope a game like this will be a learning experience for us and that these early losses can be predictors for future success."

The Rocks were paced by Ladner with 22 points, Bordelon 21 points and Whaley with eight points.

In other action last week, the Bay High Tigers split a pair of games with d'Iberville on Friday. The Tigers (2-0) defeated the Warriors 47-40 while the Lady Tigers (1-2) fell to the Lady Warriors 45-25.

The Lady Pirates (4-0) defeated West Harrison 42-36 and Biloxi 42-29.

OLA (0-3) dropped their game with Purvis last Thursday 71-12 and FCAHS on Friday 44-25.

The Bay High Lady Tigers (1-2) picked up their first win of the season with a 42-21 victory over Picayune last Tuesday evening. The Lady Tigers (1-1) enjoyed a 19-4 difference at intermission.

The Lady Tigers were led by Kylaryn Kilpatrick with 21 points including a 7-for-7 at the line. McKenzie Favre tallied 10 points.

In other local action, the Hancock Hawks fell against Stone County 55-26. Elijah Law and Nathan Klein each had six points.

Fishing trip with veterans

First and foremost, we at Shore Thing Fishing Charters would like to say THANK YOU to all of the men and women of our armed services. We had one heck of an early Veterans Day fishing trip with close to 20 soldiers this past Friday. Five of our charters boats were lucky to fish with these amazing soldiers, mostly from the Mighty 155th Brigade Combat Team. The group was put together by our dear friend Brigadier General William "Bill" Glasgow.

Due to scheduling and weather, Friday was the only option for the fishing trip. Luckily the weather was still warm, the seas were calm, and the fish were hungry. Earlier that morning, all of the boats live shrimp was generously donated by Mr William Scarbarough with B&W Live Bait in Pass Christian. With live wells full of frisky shrimp, we headed to the new Bay St Louis Harbor.

Before our soldiers arrived, Deputy Harbor Master Dwayne Coughlan was there to make sure the boats, captains, and soldiers were all taken care of. Things went very smoothly, General Glasgow had everyone there early. Our crews got lucky, and got to fish several hours, in glass calm seas. We knew a nasty storm line was approaching, but knew we would have plenty of time to fish. With approaching cold front, the fishing was very good.

It was such an absolute honor to have these fine men and women on our boats. The radio chatter on the VHF was steady with fishing reports. Our boats were checking in when fish were biting at each stop. Watching these guys and gals laugh and just relax was all worth it. Some of the soldiers had never been fishing, so it really was a big time. Reports of speck-

D'head and VFW Post 2880 host annual Veterans Day Parade

The city of Diamondhead and VFW Post 2880 on Saturday hosted the fourth annual Veterans Day Parade. The parade formed noon at the Diamondhead Country Club and traveled up Gulf Club Drive all the way to city hall. Participants included the Diamondhead Fire Department, Diamondhead Police Department, Boy Scouts, the Hancock Hawks JROTC Battalion, the Topless Club (convertible cars), and golf carts. A bake sale followed the parade at city hall, benefitting veterans in need.

led trout, red fish, black drum, sheepshead were steadily coming in all morning. Even though the approaching storms ended our fun our little early, the fishing was incredible. All five of the boats returned to the BSL Harbor with piles of fish and smiling faces.

The storm hit while our guides were just finishing up cleaning the big catch. The party was easily moved to The Blind Tiger Restaurant (TBT), next to the harbor. TBT owner Thomas Genin, and Manager Libby Sudduth supplied a FREE LUNCH for all of the soldiers. The Blind Tiger and Shore Thing have been partners in our "Catch and Cook" special for many years. Since the fish were caught and cleaned with Shore Thing, the wonderful folks at TBT even cooked some of the soldiers catch, to go with their delicious burgers.

The Southern Anglers of Mississippi Fishing Club (SAMS Club) was also on hand, to make a huge pot of hot jambalaya, for the entire crew. Mr Wally Thurmond, Frank Ladner, and Dino Calamagno were happy to serve warm meals in the cooling weather. With great fishing, awesome food, and amazing friends, this was easily one of the best Soldiers Fishing trips we have ever been a part of. Thank You to everyone who helped make this day possible. We would especially like to give a huge THANK YOU to our hero's of the armed services. Without these brave men and women, none of this would be possible. HAPPY VETERANS DAY!!!!

accomplished, young dancer who has received many accolades for all her talents, Elsie also possesses a gift that truly embodies the soul of an artist and particularly the character of Clara. In an auditorium that seats over 2,000 people, I knew that she could reach audience members all the way in the back row with her radiance. Starfish Cafe staff and Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis volunteers prepared more than 800 meals on Monday as part of the "Ripple in the Bay" campaign. The event raised funds for Starfish Cafe, Bay Ratz Marching Battery and the Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County.

Fourth annual Rotary event a huge success

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

The Bay St. Louis Rotary Club on Monday celebrated its fourth annual "Ripple in the Bay" fundraiser, giving special attention to the men and women who served our nation in uniform for Veterans Day.

"At this year's Ripple On the Bay, Bay St Louis Rotary sold 840 meals," event co-chair David Hilbert said, "and proceeds from the meals will benefit three local charities, Starfish Café, Friends of the Animal Shelter, and Bay Ratz Marching Battery. Part of Ripple On the Bay is the 'Pay it Forward' program, where people or business who purchase a Ripple meal choose to have the meal donated, and 275 of the meals were donated to area first responders, veterans, and seniors, to mention a few".

Through the "pay it forward" feature of Ripple in the Bay, volunteers delivered meals to local veterans, fire department and law enforcement officials, the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center, Brenda's House and home-bound and elderly people.

"We want to give a special thanks to (Rotarians) Lisette Ecuyer and David Hilbert for coordinating, and our whole Rotary Club worked at it, and of course, the staff of Starfish Cafe," Bay Rotary President Tami Munsch said. "The Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis is thankful for all of the community support surrounding this event."

"We are hopeful that this event ripples into waves of service throughout our area to all who are in need."

HYLA students explore Bay St. Louis and learn about entrepreneurship and small businesses

SEA COAST ECHO

The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy High School Program Class of 2018 recently spent a day in Old Town Bay St. Louis learning about entrepreneurship and the impact of small businesses on our Community. The day was sponsored by The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

The 2018 HYLA High School Class is comprised of twenty-five high school seniors from Hancock County who represent all four area schools. On Wednesday, October 17th, the group started the day with a few leadership activities at the Longfellow Civic Center and a visit from Tish Williams, Executive Director of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce. Students then played a game of political football which aimed to ascertain each students' political ideology.

Next, students walked through Old Town to the Municipal Harbor, which included a tour of the Jody Compretta Marina. Students learned of the positive impact the Harbor has had in bringing hundreds of visitors and spectators to the local merchants and to the many events that it has hosted.

The students were then excited to learn that they would be participating in a shopping event (similar to a scavenger hunt). They were given a shopping list with specific items and encouraged to visit the local merchants in teams. Some local shop owners and artists were on hand to talk to the students about their businesses. They were even treated to a demonstration of making handmade sculptures from Jenise McCardell, owner of Clay Creations. The students were then able to decide where to eat lunch at one of three restaurants, The Blind Tiger, The Purple Banana and The Mockingbird Cafe. For dessert, the Creole Creamery graciously provided each student with a scoop of their delicious ice cream.

A tour of the Hancock County Courthouse was next on the agenda and the group was treated to a visit from Assistant District Attorney Chris Daniel. Chris discussed our local court system and his role in prosecuting alleged criminals. He also discussed different career opportunities that are available when pursuing a law degree.

The students returned to the Civic Center where they were greeted by Mark Henderson, owner of Lazy Magnolia Brewery. Mark captivated the group with his personal story of the obstacles he faced starting his own company. Students then participated in an entrepreneurial group activity using the knowledge they gained during the session.

The Hancock Resource Center is the first and only county-wide youth leadership program in Hancock County, and is a program of the Hancock Resource Center. We are currently in the application/selection process for the Class of 2019. Moving forward, local community sponsorships are needed. Please consider sponsoring a session or making a general donation to support the ongoing operation of The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy. Invest in Hancock County's future by cultivating its next generation of leaders: visit www.hancockhrc.org or call 228-463-8887 to learn how.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

Dinner

neighbors in the community. Proceeds from ticket sales allow us to continue support of our designated missions: the Alliance for Health (our prescription assistance program for Hancock County patients in need); the Back Pack Buddies (filling the week-end hunger gap for Hancock County children in need); and the Episcopal Relief and Development Fund (healing a hurting world). Through this event we feel we are continuing the legacy not only of the dinner itself, but endeavors that have long been at the heart of our Christian selves. Both the Alliance for Health and the Food Pantry have strong ties from their inception to Christ Episcopal Church. "Generations of Christ Church families have carried on the Harvest Dinner that was first served in 1948 at the home of Charles and Mary Breath on North Beach Boulevard. Grandmothers, mothers and daughters have long worked side by side in the preparation and serving of what has become the traditional menu, which is a bit different than the Hungarian Goulash served in 1948. Several church members remember attending the preparation of that first dinner, as children, with their mothers. They are now grandparents and look forward each year to continuing the tradition with their children and grandchildren.

Recipes are shared with Christ Church families who prepare the food in their own kitchens with tender loving care. It takes the efforts of all church members to create this feast for 800. Stevens remarked, "It is just as much fun preparing the meal as it is sharing in the event on the day it is served. Members help in the kitchen, help serve, help bus tables, keep the "Take-Out Window" stocked, and when all is done remain after to clean up. This is often when the strongest friendships are formed. At the end of the evening, with hands in soapy water, exhausted laughter still prevails. Our greatest pleasure however, comes first from sharing this meal with our friends, families, and neighbors; and later in sharing the proceeds with those missions in need. That is our true Thanksgiving!"

Christ Episcopal Church is located at 912 South Beach Blvd, Bay St. Louis, MS. Tickets may be purchased in advance from the Church office Monday through Friday from 8am to 1pm.
